WEEK ENDING THURSDAY. March 18, 1874. COMMERCIAL EPITOME—Trade has been moving rather slowly this week, though considering the many there has been quite as much business doing as could reasonably be expected. A speculation in gold and securities caused a temporary advance in the rates of money all over the country. and its influence has served to cause a depressed feeling in trade generally. The adverse influence of the above has been a check upon that revival of business which was expected to follow the advent of spring and the adjournment being various amendmends offered. A Naval stores are firmer and there has been considerable trading. Cotton though not so firm as last week has been more active in view of the fact
